

Feminine Rage

Echosmith

I ran for my life
But I kept running into hills to climb
I wonder if I'm a liar
'Cause I faked it a hundred times
Part of me knows it's true
I wish I was more like you

Maybe I should play it dumb and set a fire
Blame it all on being young and flip the lighter
Kicking and screaming
Emotional treason
I know this feeling
The feminine rage in me

I could drive into a wall
Then walk it off and make it all your fault
And I should break the law
Change my name and let you take the fall
A part of you knows it's true
You know you've been there too

Maybe I should start a fight
I never tried it
And say what's really on my mind
You might not like it
Kicking and screaming
Emotional treason
I know this feeling
The feminine rage in me

The feminine rage in me

If I went too far
Could I take it back?
Another bridge is burned
Now I'm losing track

I've been biting my tongue for no reason
If I'm saying I'm sorry, I should mean it
Used to walk the line
It was all an act
Can't live on eggshells
I'd rather step on glass

I've been biting my tongue for no reason
Saying sorry so long it lost its meaning

Maybe I should start a fight
I never tried it
And say what's really on my mind
You might not like it
Kicking and screaming
Emotional treason
I know this feeling
The feminine rage in me

The feminine rage in me