

Spring

Ed Sheeran

Where is my mind? I've lost the nerve
This year flew by without a word
I had a plan to cross the world

The stores closed down then opened up
I said I'd do a sober month
I failed, but tried, and wrote this drunk
In overwhelming silence

And I'll see my friends
When all this ends
But now until then

I'm holding out for spring
We can't let winter win
That's why I'm holding out for spring
Oh, what a state we're in
I'll keep holding out for spring

Homework and cancelled holidays
The blame gets passed to save a face
The smell of last night's takeaway
Just tells me I'm a mess

Still watching shows they recommend
That don't get good until the end
I could be unwell, but then again
Maybe I'm just depressed

And I'll fix my head
When all this ends
But now until then

I'm holding out for spring
We can't let winter win
That's why I'm holding out for spring
Oh, what a state we're in
I'll keep holding out for

Springtime
Blue skies
Frost fades slowly
Crossed my
Mind to linger

And hold out for spring
We can't let winter win
That's why I'm holding out for spring
Oh, what a state we're in
