

The Struggle

Eddy Grant

Yeah yeah

I lived on the frontline with you
Because that's the start of it
We walked down the same Avenues
That was part of it

My Mama made us some baken Koekoe
For dine on Saturdays
I don't want to taste nothing new
There's nothing to taste
And there's nothing so good
Oh Lord

I could never leave the struggle behind me
It's more than myself
I could never leave the struggle behind me
Ho nana, ho nana, ho
I could never leave the struggle behind me
It's more than myself
I could never leave the struggle behind me

I feel everything that they do
I feel so proud of you
I know what it takes to be true
Deceit bring solitude
I don't have want you to be blue
And be weak like some of them
No dazzling have bought fortitude
There's nothing so good
And there's nothing so big
Oh Lord

I could never leave the struggle behind me
It's more than myself
I could never leave the struggle behind me
Ho nana, ho nana, ho
I could never leave the struggle behind me
It's more than myself
I could never leave the struggle behind me
Oh now

I lived on the frontline with you
Because that's the start of it
We walked down the same Avenues
That was part of it
My Mama made us our baken Koekoe
For dine on Saturdays
I don't want to taste nothing new
There's nothing to taste
And there's nothing so good
Oh Lord

I could never leave the struggle behind me
It's more than myself
I could never leave the struggle behind me
Ho nana, ho nana, ho
