Edge of Dawn

What if the place where the love retreats to rest was a comfortable room with a fireplace providing warmth and shelter on a dark winter's night what if dying meant being rocked to sleep every so gently in the soft embrace of caring arms and pure affection what if the last thought we will ever have was the memory of a beloved carrying us away into the void peacefully and quiet what if i was wrong

what if we simply fall
..and fall