

Love Has Come For You

Edie Brickell & New Bohemians

She had a child by that man from the bank
He was married with a son
All of her family said give that child away
Try to erase what you done

But when she held that sweet boy in her arms
None of their words meant a thing
And when she held that sweet boy in her arms
She heard the quiet angels sing

Love, love, love has come for you
Love, love, love has come for you

He grew up strong with a heart full of dreams
And a good mind to make them come true
He never gave her a day's worth of grief
She lit up when he came into the room

Love, love, love has come for you
Love, love, love has come for you

And she believed till the day that she died
He was given from heaven on high
And on that day he was right there by her side
When she heard the angels one more time

Love, love, love has come for you
Love, love, love has come for you
