

Oxygen Mask

Eisley

You're a ray, ray, ray
You're a sunbeam ray
But now you're turning gray
Don't tell me what you think I've been meaning to say
Okay

Rainbows and setting suns
They all come into the darkness when we were one
Oh, I can't believe its happened to me
Oh, I can't believe its happening to you

You're a vision of truth
And that's what I love
Give me one more chance
You've got me breathing
Through an oxygen mask
Give me one more chance

Oh, you remember me
Doubled over on the floor we start to read
And all the poetry convinces me
You were stolen from the waves at sea
But now we are crumbling
And I'll never get the chance to say what it means
To have you, my love, depend on me
To live all those days so joyfully

You're a vision of truth
And that's what I love
Give me one more chance
You've got me breathing
Through an oxygen mask
Give me one more chance

Why do you run?

'Cause you're a vision of truth
And that's what I love
Give me one more chance
You've got me breathing
Through an oxygen mask
Give me one more chance

Saw a vision of truth
And that's what I love
Give me one more chance
You've got me breathing
Through an oxygen mask

You're a ray, ray, ray
You're a sunbeam ray
But now you're turning gray
Don't tell me what you think I'm meaning to say
