

(Clarity is clear to see)

I still cry when we fight
I still dream about you at night
I still check my phone every minute
Even when I think I've reached my limit
I still text to say goodnight
Even when we ain't alright

I still, I still, I still
I still love you
I still need you
I still want you
I still, I still
I still love you
I still need you
I still want you
I still, I still

I still need your reassurance sometimes
And I know that you get tired of me sometimes
Listen life can get tricky when your heart is open
'Cause we live in the moment
Thinking we are not broken
'Cause we still have emotions and we still say devotion
But I still need some reassurance
Can you give me that reassurance?

You still kiss me when I'm down
You still call me when you're out of town
You still see me when you touchdown
You still apologize when you ain't wrong
You still love me even when I do wrong
You still make me feel like I'm still strong

You still, you still, you still
You still love me
You still need me
You still want me
You still, you still
You still love me
You still need me
You still want me
You still, you still

I still, you still, I still

I still love you
You still need me
I still want you
I still, you still
I still love you
You still need me
I still want you
I still, you still
