

I know it's hard
Leaving all your memories behind
But you've got to try
To change your mind

Standing at a railway station
Embraced by a night so cold
I've been traveling almost every nation
But I still haven't found those stories you told
All the knowledge I've been seeking
All the misery I have found
The commandment of reality
Made me stumble to the ground

But don't forget
It takes a lot to change
It's hard to rearrange
The modern process

It's time to set the wheels in motion
I think it's time to depart
It's time to change my worn out notions
To ease the pain inside my heart
All the knowledge I've been seeking
All the misery I have found
The commandment of reality
Made me stumble to the ground
But don't forget
It takes a lot to change
It's hard to rearrange
The modern process

Change your mind

Leave your memories behind