

Taste of Your Tongue

Elephante

That night when met you in the autumn
The leaves had started falling down
We got caught in the rain
We ran to that old bar on the corner
We talked, you pulled me closer
And I'd never felt that way

I remember the taste of your tongue
Tonight it's just us
The way you look at me says we're not done
Now I need your touch
Let's forget all the things we did wrong
Who cares about the things that we never said
Don't need to talk it out if we're in your bed
Tonight it's just us
I remember the taste of your tongue

By winter, our words became a whisper
I know it's been a year but somehow I still feel the same

I remember the taste of your tongue
Tonight it's just us
The way you look at me says we're not done
Now I need your touch
Let's forget all the things we did wrong
Who cares about the things that we never said
Don't need to talk it out if we're in your bed
Tonight it's just us
I remember the taste of your tongue

I remember the taste of your tongue
Tonight it's just us
The way you look at me says we're not done
Now I need your touch
Let's forget all the things we did wrong
Who cares about the things that we never said
Don't need to talk it out if we're in your bed
Tonight it's just us
I remember the taste of your tongue
