

You're My Diamond

Eleven

I speak your name at night
When the world steals away my sight
You the warmth inside my bones
You the circle in my stones

You're my diamond and I hold you
Like a mother's newly born
You're my diamond as I love you
It's the end I am undone...

With eyes much older than the sea
Oh you bring your storm right into me
Oh an empty grave where I should be
Oh an empty noose up on the tree

You're my diamond and I hold you
Like a mother's newly born
You're my diamond as I love you
It's the end I am undone
You're my diamond and I keep you
So I'll never be alone...
Shine your glow on me
