

Separated

ELHAE

Tried to make it simple with you, but you complicate things
I'm man enough to take the blame, for my mistakes
It's unfortunate you wanna try again, I can't relate
I think it's we're both much better off separated

Don't holler when you need some company
I already know you ain't the one for me
There's no need for your apologies
Don't holler when you need some company
I already know you ain't the one for me
There's no need for your apologies

How could I blame you
Stupid me for thinking I could change you
Hold me down, or elevate you
Or educate you on the ways of love
But you ignore all of the above
Everything I did, I did for us

Tried to make it simple with you, but you complicate things
I'm man enough to take the blame, for my mistakes
It's unfortunate you wanna try again, I can't relate
I think it's we're both much better off separated

Don't holler when you need some company
I already know you ain't the one for me
There's no need for your apologies
Don't holler when you need some company
I already know you ain't the one for me
There's no need for your apologies

You say that I pop up in your head uninvited
Why you telling me like I'm the one that you confide in
You wilding
Nose diving, I'ma need you to rewind it
Recline it
Understand you never met the FAM
It doesn't count if you at me on the gram
Girl I know you better than you know yourself that's why I

Tried to make it simple with you, but you complicate things
I'm man enough to take the blame, for my mistakes
It's unfortunate you wanna try again, I can't relate
I think it's we're both much better off separated

Don't holler when you need some company
I already know you ain't the one for me
There's no need for your apologies
Don't holler when you need some company
I already know you ain't the one for me
There's no need for your apologies