

Settle For Your Sometimes

Eli Young Band

Sometimes you're so good at "gone"
And you don't even act like you know me
Sometimes it's late and you're drunk
And you do what you do when you're lonely

You know how to leave here ice-cold
And how to show up here red-hot
Sometimes you're mine
And sometimes you're not

I'd rather be your slow-sip red wine
But I'll settle for a whiskey kiss
Yeah, I'd rather have your all-day sunshine
But I'll take all the moonlight I can get
'Cause a little bit of loving you's worth losing you
Every time you change your mind
I'd rather be your "always" always
But I'll settle for your "sometimes"

Sometimes your eyes take a dive into mine
And it looks like you need me
Good as it gets, 'til you're back on the fence
And make leaving look easy
But we both know it won't last
'Cause you want what you don't need
It's outta my hands
Baby, I'm in too deep

I'd rather be your slow-sip red wine
But I'll settle for a whiskey kiss
Yeah, I'd rather have your all-day sunshine
But I'll take all the moonlight I can get
'Cause a little bit of loving you's worth losing you
Every time you change your mind
I'd rather be your "always" always
But I'll settle for your "sometimes"

Yeah, I'll settle for your "sometimes"

On again, off again, breaking my heart again
Hate it when it ends, but I love it when we start again
If that's how it's gotta go
But girl, just so you know

I'd rather be your slow-sip red wine
But I'll settle for a whiskey kiss
Yeah, I'd rather have your all-day sunshine
But I'll take all the moonlight I can get
'Cause a little bit of loving you's worth losing you
Every time you change your mind
I'd rather be your "always" always
But I'll settle for your "sometimes"

I'll settle for your "sometimes"
Settle for your "sometimes"
