

Young

Ella Henderson

We're just kids, we're just young
But we're already all outdated
And I don't mean to be the one
But I'ma go 'head and say this
That we were dealt with a bad hand
Sold our souls to the bad man
And now our home is dry land

If we grow up believin' we can change
Then we'll never love the life and road we take
I see so many kids these days self-medication'
Tell me, what's the deal with that? Hey

Ay, open your eyes
No, not again
We'll be alright
If we just be who we are
Then we could be proud of a lot
And be forever young
We'll be forever young

If the kids give a damn
And listen up to our voices
'Cause we don't need another man
To be takin' our choices
Yeah, we can make up our own minds
In a world where we all got our own rights
I'm tired of trying to run from the blurred lines, yeah

Ay, open your eyes
No, not again
We'll be alright
If we just be who we are
Then we could be proud of a lot
And be forever young
We'll be forever young

Here's to the fake shit, here's to the bullshit
We'll keep on movin' up
We want the life, yeah, we like the music
Where we don't give a fuck
And if we just be who we are
Then we could be proud of a lot
And be forever young
We'll be forever young

And ay, open your eyes
No, not again
We'll be alright
If we just be who we are
Then we could be proud of a lot
And be forever young

We'll be forever young
