

Thief

ella jane

My head's too crowded all the time
The colors drown me out
Until I'm too far gone to mind
That nothing's figured out
So when you find me in the sand
Broken by the sea
Don't look for me inside my body
'Cause that's not where I'll be

I keep wandering up and down the highway, staring at the cars
At least they know their own direction
You need a warranty for stars
So when you catch me in the rearview, above your empty seat
Don't look for me inside my body
'Cause that's not where I'll be

Ooh, I think I'm pushing my luck too far
Trying to get back to where we are
In unfamiliar skin
Ooh, I'm at the edge of the universe
So does it matter if I get hurt?
If I'm on my way back in

Ooh, oh, oh-oh, oh
Ooh, oh, oh-oh, oh
Ooh, oh, oh-oh, oh
Oh

Woke up this morning with a fast heart, couldn't slow it down
Next thing I know I'm in a fast car, too late to turn around
Don't tell nobody but I stole it
So when you look at me
Just know you're looking at a stranger
And you're loved by a thief

No
Ooh, oh, oh-oh, oh
