

Suddenly

Ella Vos

Watching all the trains go
By the window, you're dreaming
Lay there, counting heartbeats
After two weeks you're wondering
'Cause in a flash
I could feel your pulse instead of my own
The rain was pouring down

And suddenly, you're what I need
Despite the sorrow, I was new again tomorrow
And there you were, watching me
Like you don't know, everywhere you go I follow

Smile a little longer
Feeling younger when you're here
Turning every Sunday
While you still pray over my
'Cause in a flash
The sun was shining down

And suddenly, you're what I need
Despite the sorrow, I was new again tomorrow
And there you were, watching me
Like you don't know, everywhere you go I follow

Closing at the way you undress
Did I pray, I wonder

And suddenly, you're what I need
Despite the sorrow, I was new again tomorrow
And there you were, watching me
Like you don't know, everywhere you go I follow
