

Sober

Elle King

Well this wine
Looks lonely on that shelf
Well, it won't drink itself
And I'm sober
I'm even wrong when I'm right
But I only cry when I'm sober

Pay no mind
The last time I tried
It just hurt too much
But I'm fine
I'll fix it all when I'm sober

You and me
Won't mean us anymore
I pretend I don't mind that it's over
Now that we're free
Free to do what we want
I pretend it's not over

Pay no mind
The last time I tried
It just hurt too much
But I'm fine
I'll fix it all when I'm sober

Well, darling

I think of you from time to time
You know, every once in a while
It's gotten better
Now, it's every other night
But also the nights in-between
And every second of every hour of everyday
And I wonder, will that day ever come when I don't wonder why?
Yeah, I could have been nicer, but you lied

Pay no mind
The last time I tried
It just hurt too much
But I'm fine
I'll fix it all and

Pay no mind
The last time I tried
It just hurt too much
But I'm fine
I'll fix it all when I'm sober
