

Electricity

Ellie Holcomb

You were a heartbeat dreamer
Never scared to chase the mystery
You were a wing clipped white lightning
Always a song to me

It's not a statue on the boulevard
It's not a war or a dream or a shooting star

You're my flashlight in the darkness baby
You're my electricity
You're the one I always wanted
The only one I need

He said you write too many love songs
But I think he's got it all wrong
The heart of any good love song
Is a cold heart getting warm

The thought of you laying beside me
Makes my blood run like a river to the sea

You're my flashlight in the dark baby
You're my electricity
I'm not the one you always wanted
But I'm the only one you need

You're my flashlight in the darkness baby
You're my electricity
You're the one I always wanted
The only one I need

When the wheels fall off, When the waters rise
Feels like we're not enough, when we run and hide
When the house burns down, when the road dead ends
Feels like a ghost town, you're my only friend

You're my flashlight in the darkness baby
You're my electricity
You're the one I always wanted
The only one I need
