

Spring Is Here

Ellie Holcomb

Have you ever grown tired of winter and cold?
You stare out the window, it's getting so old
You can't go outside, you can't go and play
You find yourself dreaming of warm sunny days

Your feet could be bare, your pants could be short
You don't want to be the hibernating sort
So children, take heart, the winter will end
The grass will grow green in the sunshine again
The seasons will change, what joy it'll bring
When we dance to the life-giving song of the spring

Spring has sprung, it's finally here
The trees are green, the sky is clear
The earth is full of a sunny cheer
Spring has sprung, it's finally here

The colorful flowers are in bloom
The warmer days are coming soon
But not as warm as it gets in June
The colorful flowers are in bloom

The birds are singing in the trees
They whistle along with the buzzing bees
The air is full of their melodies
The birds are singing in the trees

Oh. God is making the earth anew
The grass, the trees, the stems, the shoots
The spring will sing the song, it's true
That God is making the earth anew

Oh spring has sprung, it's finally here
The trees are green, the sky is clear
The earth is full of a sunny cheer
Spring has sprung, it's finally here

It's finally here
Oh it's finally here
Spring, spring, spring, spring
Spring is finally here
