

Boomerang

Elliot Moss

You threw the boomerang as hard as you could
And told me to wait in your place
You knew it was coming back
But you wouldn't be there to catch it
It's so unfortunate that something has to end
For a man to realize he wants more

'Cause it's so much harder to
Fall in love when you've
Been in love before
It's so much harder to
Fall in love when you've
Been in love before

The future's peaks are capped with ice now
And the symphony that played our score stopped making sound
If you knew it was coming back
Why weren't you there to hear it?
I'll be standing outside, staring at the sky
Only you know what I'm watching for

It's so much harder to
Fall in love when you've
Been in love before
It's so much harder to
Fall in love when you've
Been in love before
'Cause it's so much harder to
Fall in love when you've
Been in love before
It's so much harder to
Fall in love when you've
Been in love before
