

Pigments

Elohim

There's an answer to my question but there isn't a why
There's a moment to discover if you're willing to try
You can lead a horse to water
But he may choose to die

Every color has a pigment that we can't figure out
We're all starving for the one thing we don't already have I'm in trouble when I'm breaking but I promise to keep breathin g

I can't make you love you
I could change your pigments

When our hearts are beating backwards we don't know where to go
All the waves have changed direction now the difference show
I keep trying to be silent but I can't help of myself from talk ing

Every color has a pigment that we can't figure out
We're all starving for the one thing we don't already have
I'm in trouble when I'm breakin' but I promise to keep breathin
,

I can't make you love you
I could change your pigments