Stormbringer

Elton John

Time has gone by The calendar leaves and snows fly I might write a poem If I could think of the words to try

What is there to remember The winter was December Just one more year left behind

She never looked around to see me She never looked around at all All I saw was the shadows on the wall She never looked around to see me Oh, she never looked around at all All I heard was the snow that had to fall

She left in the morning Quietly that was her way And on returning I find I have nothing to say

What is there to remember The winter was December Just one more year left behind

She never looked around to see me...