

Doomsday

Elvis Perkins

And While I forget your name
I forget your sweet face
Till Doomsday fell out again

Man I went wild last night
Oh yes I'll pay tonight
But I don't let doomsday bother me
Does it bother you?
I know you told me again and again
Will it mean that we wont be friends?

When doomsday rears her ugly head again

And even though you voted that awful man
I'll never refuse your hand
On any given doomsday or the one and only doomsday

Not in all my wildest dreams it never once was seen
That doomsday might fall anywhere near a tuesday

But flight across the skies seein fate before my eyes

There isn't any sense to feel the light
For I don't plan to die
Nor should you plan to die
