

Falling Rain

Ember Falls

I've lost a lover in cold blood
Seen it all the way
Watched the sparkle of young eyes slowly fade to grey
But I've seen a light that is greater
Than all the misery
Fires burning wild a million miles away

Turn the page to unchain my fate
Witness the threads of my old heart frayed
See the way it was meant to be
This is how it ends for me

I am bleeding my dreams away
Like a fire in falling rain
All the dearest of memories
All my tears
They will be lost in the falling rain

I've lost a brother and gained one
Fallen in and out of faith
I've seen fathers and sons together walk into their graves
I was lost as well as outnumbered
A war without an end
Fires burning higher I'll make my amends

Turn the page to unchain my fate
Witness the threads of my old heart frayed
See the way it was meant to be
The void beckons me

I am bleeding my dreams away
Like a fire in falling rain
All the dearest of memories
All my tears
They will be lost in the falling rain

I am bleeding my dreams away
Like a fire in falling rain
All the dearest of memories
All my tears
They will be lost in the falling rain

I am bleeding my dreams away
Like a fire in falling rain
All the dearest of memories
All my tears
They will be lost in the falling rain