

For All

Ember Falls

Ripping it out like an umbilical cord
Gotta sever the wires of this hereditary bomb

Burning the crosses of a God imperial
With infinity staring at the bottom of the soul

As a child will run towards mother's call
We are bound by our blood to it all
The obstacle will feign a stepping stone
A star is always brightest before the fall

Readily pouring the fuel to kill
Draining the blood of kin for a quick fill
The prophecy of the blind man fulfilled
Leaving behind a blank derelict will

I can see you, full of fire
But you're too beautiful to show your form
For all, for all, for all
We need to finally hear you
Speak your thunder
Because the world is blind and your light must shine
For all, for all, for all
For the underworld

Who is the savior
Who is the pharaoh
Who is the prophet
To claim us all

On this denial-ridden throne
The human comedy is shown
And though the play will carry on
You will tremble if you leave it out of control

As a child will run towards mother's call
We are bound by our blood to it all
Let there be light for all, for all, for all

I can see you, full of fire
But you're too beautiful to show your form
For all, for all, for all
We need to finally hear you
Speak your thunder
Because the world is blind and your light must shine
For all, for all, for all
For the underworld

Who is the savior who keeps us off the beaten path to early perdition
The pharaoh to keep the city safe from certain deadly disaster
The prophet to feed the open mouths of those who know of no better

Let the signal amplify
Prepare for blood, this motherfucker's gonna flood
Where's your will to fight
Draw your teeth out and bite
Stop bowing to another birthright

Savior, pharaoh, prophet and God
Will still sell your soul and ask for gratitude in kind

I can see you, full of fire
But you're too beautiful to show your form
For all, for all, for all
We need to finally hear you
Speak your thunder
Because the world is blind and your light must shine
For all, for all, for all

Who is the savior who keeps us off the beaten path to early perdition
The pharaoh to keep the city safe from certain deadly disaster
The prophet to feed the open mouths of those who know of no better

Who is the savior
Who is the pharaoh, and
Who is the prophet
Whose light must shine for all