

Freedom

Ember Falls

One second after the blinding flash
The fields and the rivers were drowning in ash
Most become what they were once made of
But we were the ones left to suffer the cost

Ruled by the sightless men
Together we'll fight and rise against

I won't let the heat consume our love, love
There is nothing without you

I hear the drums of emptiness
I feel the sounds that haunt in the dark
This cool night air bears nothing less
Yet I won't let them tear us apart
I'll take you far where the sirens sing
Brush the pain off your skin, hold you close
They are the death of everything
But I find my strength in the cold

I won't let the heat consume our love, love
There is nothing without you

And the sun will set for you
And the brightest light shines through
Replace your fears with freedom, freedom

And the sun will set for you
And the brightest light shines through
Replace your fears with freedom, freedom

I won't let the heat consume our love, love
There is nothing without you

I won't let the heat consume our love, love
There is nothing without you

I won't let the heat consume our love, love
There is nothing without you
