Hey, What You Trying to Say

Hey, what you trying to say Because the giants that I've left behind Won't overshadow me So hey, what you trying to mend When the magic of the first is feeling Like it could never end

And stars remind you You see the best in the dark And every time I see your eyes You can't deny it cause they say What you're trying to say

So hey, what you trying to lose What you can't describe you try to hide No one ever tells the truth So hey, what you trying to say Do you ask you if you need me As you say it's all okay

Stars remind you You see the best in the dark And every time I see your eyes You can't hide

Cause I know how you feel And every time you use that mouth Everything I hear will always let me down Cause all I hear is words Every time you make a sound Promises and worse You'll always let me down

Hey, what you trying to say Because the giants that I've left behind Won't overshadow me Hey, what you trying to mend When the magic of the first time is the feeling All these feelings never end
