

Gone Too Soon

Emerson, Lake & Palmer

Moving like a restless wind, Heaven up above me
Floating like driftwood on the tide
Wandering from place to place, a cold rain is upon me
Falling in the rivers of my pride.

Just the sound of one heart breaking screaming at the silent moon
Just another dream forsaken gone too fast, and gone too soon.

Now that you are here tonight, I don't mean no harm
There's nothin' more that I can say
You know I want to be with you, there's nothing that I wouldn't do
How can I feel this way?

Just another picture taken, an ordinary photograph
Just another dream I've shaken, gone too soon, and gone too fast.

You are all my favorite colours
Don't want it to fade to black and white
I want to believe in something, gotta believe in something
I wanna believe in me and you tonight.

Just the sound of one heart breaking, screaming at the silent moon
Just another dream forsaken gone too fast and gone too soon.

I will never leave you here
There's something you must believe, tell me deep inside you feel the same
I just want to be with you, hold you for my whole life through
I've only got myself to blame.

Just another night forsaken, screaming at the silent moon
Just another day in my life, gone too fast, and gone too soon.

Just another dream I've shaken, gone too soon, and gone too fast.

Just another night forsaken, screaming at the silent moon
Just another day in my life, gone too fast and gone too soon.

Just the sound of one heart breaking screaming at the silent moon
Just another dream forsaken gone too fast, and gone too soon.
