

Give and Take

Emily Burns

Every day I fall for you a little more
Playing with your hair, sat on the living room floor
It's all the insignificant things
Like pastry, and TV, and sunburnt skin

Every time we share a look across the room
Knowing that you wanna leave and I do too
It becomes a bit more obvious it's you
It's you

So you don't have to ask me
What if this is all I have to give?
What if you've already had your last first kiss?
What if every moment feels like this?
I'll take it, I'll take it

If you wanna know how I can be so sure
It's the way I lose it when your key turns in the door
And all the insignificant things
Like bad jokes, and voice notes, and board game wins

So you don't have to ask me
What if this is all I have to give?
What if you've already had your last first kiss?
What if every moment feels like this?
I'll take it, I'll take it

And when it comes to putting in the work
Are you still gonna love me when you've seen my worst?
What if it won't always feel like this?
I'll take it, I'll take it
I'll take the hardest of times
I'll take the hardest of fights
Even with tears in my eyes
I won't think twice

I'll take the highs and the lows
I hope you already know
You don't have to ask me
What if this is all I have to give?
What if you've already had your last first kiss?
What if every moment feels like this?
I'll take it, I'll take it

And when it comes to putting in the work
Are you still gonna love me when you've seen my worst?
What if it won't always feel like this?
I'll take it, I'll take it
