

Second Guessing

Emily Burns

When you're alone
D'you still leave the hallway light on low?
Singing chocolate as you brush your teeth
Go to sleep watching the same movie
And when you're sad
D'you still run yourself a nice hot bath?
Set up candles like a gallery
Call your mother 'cause you can't call me

Are you still that girl I knew?
'Cause I haven't lived past you

If you find yourself on my street
And you're meters away from me
You're second guessing it
Just know I'm second guessing it
If you catch yourself thinking of us
And you dial but then you hang up
You're second guessing it
Just know I'm second guessing it, too

Oh I I, I I
Oh I I, I I
Oh I I, I I
I'm second guessing it

When my friends leave
And it's just me and Sunday night TV
That's when the emptiness you left hits home
And my sofa really knows you're gone
And everyday's
A little harder than yesterday
God I hate driving without you
Crying without you here
Come dry my tears

I'm still that girl you know
And I don't want to live past you

If you find yourself on my street
And you're meters away from me
You're second guessing it
Just know I'm second guessing it
If you catch yourself thinking of us
And you dial but then you hang up
You're second guessing it
Just know I'm second guessing it, too

Oh I I, I I
Oh I I, I I
Oh I I, I I
I'm second guessing it, too
Oh I I, I I
Oh I I, I I
Oh I I, I I
I'm second guessing it, too

What have we done
Are we fools, or what?
To find perfect love
And throw it away girl we messed up
What have we done?
Are we fools, or what?
To find perfect love
And throw it away what have we done?

If you find yourself on my street
And you're meters away from me
You're second guessing it
Just know I'm second guessing it, too
