Every Grain of Sand

Emmylou Harris

In the time of my confession, in the hour of my deepest need When the pool of tears beneath my feet, flood every newborn see d There's a dyin' voice within me, reaching out somewhere Toiling in the danger and in the morals of despair

Don't have the inclination to look back on any mistake Like cain, I now behold this chain of events that I must break In the fury of the moment I can see the master's hand In every leaf that trembles and in every grain of sand

Oh, the flowers of indulgence and the weeds of yesteryear Like criminals, they have choked the breath of conscience and g ood cheer The sun beat down upon the steps of time to light the way To ease the pain of idleness and the memory of decay

I gaze into the doorway of temptation's angry flame And every time I pass that way, I always hear my name Then onward in my journey, I come to understand That every hair is numbered like every grain of sand

I have gone from rags to riches in the sorrow of the night In the violence of a summer's dream, in the chill of a wintry l ight

In the bitter dance of loneliness fading into space In the broken mirror of innocence on each forgotten face

I hear the ancient footsteps like the motion of the sea Sometimes I turn, there's someone there, other times it's only me

I am hanging in the balance of a perfect finished plan Like every sparrow falling, like every grain of sand