

No More Words

Endeverafter

I got a sharp stick, I keep in my pocket
I speak volumes never utter a word
When you strike a match, a fire will happen
But the line between the smoke and the flames get blurred

Don't you see the writing on the wall (Don't you see the writing on the wall)
You're in way over your head
You're gonna drown in the things that you said

Time has come and gone for words
A thousands threats I've heard before your words are cheap and lies are big to take

Time has come and gone for words
A thousands threats I've heard before
And all your words are due to pay today

It's a paradox, A mystery, A riddle
A door in your face and only I have the key to understand you'll be caught in the middle Caught in a web being spun by me

Don't you see the writing on the wall (Don't you see the writing on the wall)
Just a victim of your own conceit
The architect of your own defeat

Time has come and gone for words
A thousands threats I've heard before
when words are cheap and lies are made to pay

Time has come and gone for words
A thousands threats I've heard before when all your words are due to pay today

Never walk away from a fight that's worth fighting Never hesitate when you know you're gonna act
Never waste your words on a fool you won't listen Never sell your soul cause you'll never buy it... back

Time has come and gone for words
A thousands threats I've heard before
when words are cheap and lies are made to pay

a thousand threats I've heard before
and all your words are due to pay today
