Marbles Explode

Enon

The rhythm gets you
Before the rhythm gets you
The rhythm gets you
Before the rhythm gets you

There's a place inside my mind that's only
For days run
I get excited and I come undone
Well I'm fussing over this
And fretting over that
Look where I'm going
You may know where I'm at

There!
Was a blip queen
For a blank king
She had no rhythm
In her spanking
Got a tutor
Never practiced
Lovely paper
Pretty plastic

The target's a small town boy
His mission to be unemployed
A steel jaw drop one size fits all
Two workboots and a chain and ball

There's a girl inside my heart that's only
Four beats old
I'm facing forward or so I am told
Now fluctuating with a kiss
Into another mode
And now she's dressing up her dolls
Before the marbles explode

There was a blip queen
For a blank king
She had no rhythm
In her spanking
Got a tutor
Never practiced
Lovely paper
Pretty plastic

The target's a queen sized girl
Her mission is not of this world
To fill a dress four sizes small
She's thinning up for cattle call

I get trouble out there in the world
Because the left brain says
The right hand does
Trouble out there with the girls because
The right hand
Trouble out there in the world

Because the left brain says
The right hand does
The right hand
Trouble in the world
The right hand
Trouble with the girls
The right hand
Trouble in the world
The right hand
Trouble with the girls
The right hand
