

Remember You Are Dust

Entheos

And now let the end come crashing down on me
I am now a vessel of both light and of darkness
A sudden, lucid realization of my detachment
I am now ready to take over the world

Through this fear I am unconscious
And from within it I cannot see
Through this fear I am unconscious
From within it I cannot see a thing

Because I
Remember that we
Are dust

The grey sky opened wider than ever
Cold rain came crashing down on me

I breathe in again to let the light shine in Still day and night blend together
Imperfect harmony
This sense of monotony follows me, why

It is why we live

When I feel the warmth of the sun turn cold
Somewhere here in the in-between of soil and soul
I remember that I am dust
Somewhere here in the in-between of soil and soul

I am now ready to take over the world

Through this fear I am unconscious
And from within it I cannot see
Through this fear I am unconscious
And from within it I cannot see a thing

Now I am ready to take over the world
And to die