

Fears fade into uncomfortable realities
Endless processes leave me chewing my finger
Grinding my teeth
Insecure and delusional
Revisiting reopening old wound
Immersed in reflection
Resisting neutrality
Motion paralyzed
I'm losing it all

There is no certainty in that which
We can never come to know
An assumption a delusion
This lack of sleep weigh on me

There is no certainty in that which
We can never come to know
An assumption a delusion
This lack of sleep weigh on me

One for those whose eyes will never close
And through my total desperation

And through my total desperation
I screamed into the dark night
Thought I know my word will never reach you
I'd give anything to try
To begin again

To begin again

(Mirror illusion of my fantasies
Those which once only awoke in daydream
Take breath and thrive within my flash
All inhibition disappears with the sunset)

Like lead in my lung
I'm burning the wick of the candle from both ends
Isn't it obvious blow the flame out

Like lead in my fate
I'm burning the wick of the candle from both ends
Isn't it obvious blow the flame out