

Manic State Park

Envy on the Coast

One swan swimming in the lake of fire
One song singing in the wake of desire
Oh, but you look so good
You look so good
You look so good
You look so good

One wrong making it right to crawl out the mire
One little secret, some would call you a liar
Oh, but you look so good
You look so good
You look so good
You look so good

You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay

One swan swimming in the lake of fire
One song singing in the wake of desire
Oh, but you look so good
You look so good
You look so good
You look so good

One wrong making it right to crawl out the mire
One little secret, some would call you a liar
Oh, but you look so good
You look so good
You look so good
You look so good

You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay
You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay

One man stands in the rain, asking why
One man struck by the sky, a second time
Oh, but it looks so good
It looks so good
It's coming around
And it looks so good

One hand feeding himself, out of the crop
One hand feeding your young out of the slop
Oh, but you look so good
You look so good
You look so good

You look so good

You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay
You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay

You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay
You will pay
It comes around
It comes around
It comes around
And you'll pay