

In a world of colorblind view
Where shades of gray are all that we knew
Lost in the vast expanse so wide
Beneath the open cerulean sky

Sailing through life on a boundless sea
Searching for home, searching for me
Freedom's the wind, it's the breeze we chase
An endless journey, we'll find our place

Like drops of indigo in a sea of gray
Like children's eyes, where dreams hold sway
The search for meaning, the search for belonging
In this life's journey, our hearts keep longing

Sailing through life on a boundless sea
Searching for home, searching for me
Freedom's the wind, it's the breeze we chase
An endless journey, but we'll find our place

From dusk till dawn, our final day
From this life's beauty to its darkest decay
Through trials and triumphs, as we dance through the age
The lights of hope will burst through dead men's rage

Sailing through life on a boundless sea
Searching for home, searching for me
Freedom's the wind, it's the breeze we chase
An endless journey, we'll find our place