

Blinded by the Light

Eric Woolfson

Sometimes the world can seem a million miles away
Sometimes the moon can turn the night into the day
Sometimes you find a rainbow's end
Right there in front of you
Don't let the moment pass you by
Don't turn away

For your eyes are starlight
And my eyes are blinded by the light
And your face is star-bright
And my soul is blinded by the light

Sometimes the night can be the dark before the dawn
Sometimes a smile can be the calm before the storm
Once in a while there's paradise
Right there in front of you

Don't be afraid to find your dream
Don't turn away

For your eyes are starlight
And my eyes are blinded by the light
And your face is star-bright
My soul (my soul)
Is blinded by the light

Blinded by the light

Once in a while there's paradise
Right there in front of you
Don't be afraid to find your dream
Don't turn away

For your eyes are starlight
And my eyes are blinded by the light
And your face is star-bright
My soul (my soul)
Is blinded by the light