

Immortal

Eric Woolfson

I was adrift on an ocean of dreams
I was amazed . . .
And as I sail to the end of the world
I'm not afraid . . .
Mournful moon and willow tree
Tell the world not to weep for me
And I will be set free . . .

I took a drink from a bottle of wine
And I was changed . . .
Made a deal with the devil inside
And I was shamed . . .
I have sailed on stormy seas
Where the four winds blow me
Shining moon and willow tree
Tell the world--remember me
For I will be set free . . .

All that we see
All that we seem
Is but a shadow of a shadow
Of a dream within a dream
But if a tree is evergreen
Then maybe part of us
Could be eternal . . .
Though tangled life
May be no more
A drop rain upon the ocean
Grain of sand upon the shore
The words will live forevermore
If you can hear me now
Am I immortal?

Magic mood and willow tree
If they ask about me
Tell the truth, and they might learn
Light a candle and watch it burn . . .
Then I will be set free . . .

Free as a bird
Upon the wind
Now all the trials and tribulations
Of the world don't mean a thing
Above the clouds
I'll fly away . . .
Was it my imagination,
Did the stars come out to play?
Beyond the sun . . .
Eternal flame
I hear a chorus of a million voices
Calling out my name
But all I see and all I seem
Is but a shadow of a shadow
Of a dream within a dream

Free as the wind . . .
Lighter than air

Free from the jealous minds
The scornful, bitter words
Won't hurt me there
And I will live forevermore . . .
If you remember me
I am immortal!

I am immortal!
