

The Garden

Erika De Casier

I felt it in the way I lost touch
Suddenly I really didn't know you enough
You see me there, I'm standing outside
I can't remember where I put my bike last night
Tried hiding behind you
You seemed so legit and
We seemed to be hitting it off
So we went with it

Right around the corner from where I live there's a garden
Meet me there in five and I will show you all of me (Show you a ll of me)
Magnolia and willow trees is all that I can fathom
A spur of life that rises from the ashes of our kin
You know we can't stay
You know we can't stay

Um, I woke up feeling very sentimental
But you don't follow me, you think it's irrelevant
Wish I could be more loose
If you're going through a list, it's my turn
Baby, don't settle now, why so blue?
'Cause I won't live forever
And I want love too
Kissing and taking care of one another, nothing new
I feel like having that I never said I didn't
And now that time flies
Might as well pick a side

I felt it in the way I lost touch
Suddenly I really didn't know you enough
You see me there, I'm standing outside
I can't remember where I put my bike last night
Tried hiding behind you
You seemed so legit and
We seemed to be hitting it off
So we went with it

Right around the corner from where I live there's a garden
Meet me there in five and I will show you all of me (Show you a ll of me)
Magnolia and willow trees is all that I can fathom
A spur of life that rises from the ashes of our kin
You know we can't stay
You know we can't stay
