

Centuries evaporate in a haze
It terrifies you
Expiring without ceremony in declining days
Give it up, give back what's given
Quickened stride to escape tension
No one is coming along with you

You are finding a way back to your heart
You are finding a way back to your heart
Floating slowly through the infinite dark
You follow a faint light

A silhouette stands in the doorway
Between the light and dark
Stretched out inside a blade of shadow
It follows you

To trespass over your grave
Give it up, give back what's given
Passing through like apparitions
Nowhere to hide in a crumbling shell

You are finding a way back to your heart
You are finding a way back to your heart
Floating slowly through the infinite dark
You follow a faint light
You follow a faint light

We choose to self-destruct
Permit what tears us up
We choose to self destruct, oh
With all the effort you can give it
Rebuild to repeat the cycle
It never ends

You are finding a way back to your heart
You are finding a way back to your heart
Floating slowly through the infinite dark
You follow a faint light

Finding a way back to your heart
You are finding a way back to your heart
Floating slowly through the infinite dark
You follow a faint light