

Invisible Catastrophe

Evans Blue

Eternally contained
Within four walls of stained glass windows remains
An artificial sacrificed to idolize the ways
Of a life in which was meant to lift the burdens we crave
An invisible catastrophe
Involuntary plague
The fear is in fine print
Infectious parade
Invested in those
In over ten thousand ways
Self-inflicted debt paid
Through an invisible catastrophe

Let go
You can't not let go
Your cognitive dissonance, indifference is broke
Even egos know their limits
Now we all must
Let go
We can't not let go
Your lack of perspective is infected
By your lack of attention used as weapons
Are you listening?

We're moving through life
Where a man with no sight could justifiably deny
That it's he who's gone blind
Where self-loathing is learned
And love is a crime
Chained to the pages we turn
We're reminded
Accept is the view
As our guilt becomes virtue
Our conscience confused
I'm sorry but who's failed who?
Choose me or lose
You're abusing the broken
Through promise but proof
Is the invisible catastrophe

Let go
You can't not let go
Your cognitive dissonance, indifference is broke
Even egos know their limits
Now we all must
Let go
We can't not let go
Are you listening?

Let go
Now we all must

Let go
We can't not let go
Are you listening?
Let go
Now we all must
Let go
We can't not let go
Are you listening?
