

Say

Evergrey

It's like echoes on the inside
Your unspoken words
It's like knowing without knowing
Just knowing that it hurts
It's like you painted a picture
Without colors and inert
You spoke without phrases
And still hoped to be heard

Say what you want
Say how you see this
Say before my heart is making me leave this
Say what you want
Just say how you want me
Say before I'm getting used to this hurting

Just like the way of the water and the way of the wind
A fallen rain will have fallen still
Like the weight of the will there's a before and after
And when you start to travel you've already left

Say what you want
Say how you see this
Say before my heart is making me leave this
Say what you want
Just say how you want me
Say before I'm getting used to this hurting

Say what you want
Say how you see this
Say before my heart is making me leave this
Say what you want
Just say how you want me
Say before I'm getting used to this hurting

Say what you want
Say how you see this
Say before my heart is making me leave this
Say what you want
Just say how you want me
Say before I'm getting used to this hurting
