

Are We OK

Everlife

It's been forever since we told each other what was on our mind
We're too afraid to mention why there's so much tension building up inside
Caught up in the cycle, it feels like we could fight till nothing's left of us

Honesty could break this world that we fit before we come undone

We've come too far to let this go
But I need to know

Are we okay?
Are we sane?
Why are we screaming all these things we never say?
Are we fine?
Is this the sight of love that's trying to survive?
We fight to stay alive.

When walking away seems easier than staying I remind myself
That we're in this together, get back and touch the better, I want no one else.

We've come too far to let this go
But I need to know

Are we okay?
Are we sane?
Why are we screaming all these things we never say?
Are we fine?
Is the sight of love that's trying to survive?
We fight to stay alive.

Don't take it back
No, don't apologize
We needed that
Now I know how you feel

Love's not a fight
To see who's wrong, who's right
Don't be afraid to say

Are we okay?
Are we sane?
Why are we screaming?
We're screaming

Are we okay?
Are we sane?
Why are we screaming all these things we never say?
Are we fine?
Is the sight of love that's trying to survive?
We fight to stay alive.

We fight to stay alive.
