

Timmy's Song

Everlife

Dear Timmy, it's been a while. I have so much to say.
But first I'm sorry for losing touch these years we've been away.
Let's go back to our innocence, when we had no cares at all.
Just hold my hand through these lonely woods and we'll catch each other's fall.

These days seem so uncertain
This life is filled with doubt
Love there's always a new face, something sweet to figure out.

Please stay.
Please stay.
Don't give up yet, sweet boy,
Because we're coming to see you.
Please stay.

Dear Timmy, don't feel alone. We'll meet you where you're at.
If I'd known the power in a word, I would have showered you with paragraphs.
I understand you think it's as bad as it can be
It gets better, so much better, boy, you can trust me.

These days seem so uncertain
This life is filled with doubt
But love works in mysterious ways we are meant to figure out.

Please stay.
Please stay.
Don't give up yet, sweet boy,
Because we're coming to see you.

Please stay.
Please stay.
Just hold on one more day.
I wish we could've seen you.

Please stay.

This song is for you, lonely soul that hides within itself.
Disguised behind your quiet smile, your blue eyes are screaming out.
Remember walking with the one who made you
We walk beside him too.
Just promise me you won't leave this world with the words that deceive you.

Please stay!
Please stay!

Please stay.
Please stay.
Don't give up yet, sweet boy,
Because we're coming to see you.

Don't give up yet, sweet boy,
Because we're coming to see you.

Don't give up yet, sweet boy,
I wish we could've seen you.

Please stay.