Even So

Everything But the Girl

If I say I'll always stay by your side Stupid things say some night Can you tell me I am wrong till I cry Tell me do you have the right If I say that seas could never sweep me Overboard and far away Do you still say you wouldn't try to keep me If I lost the will to stay

You won't promise this will last much longer Than the time it takes to stay You excuse is that my heart's much stronger And some of you love has been drained away

I can't bear it when the tears fill your eyes And I've said too much once more Don't be angry now you must realise My only fear's of losing something I adore