

Sunshine Path

Excalion

We have fallen under a spell of rush and useless needs
Have we lost our way? Where does this lead?

This is why we came here, the reason we took the time
What we demanded and we expected from the night

Feel the wind and the air that you breathe

Now wake up, hear the birds sing your song
Go down the path, what you've waited all along

When we sit still and dream about joy and laughter
Are we truly in a place that we really are after?

We've seen pictures of rejoice and we believe that is right
It has took our thoughts and the answer is in our sight

Feel the sun and the light in your eyes

Now wake up, hear the birds sing your song
Go down the path, what you've waited all along
Where the sun meets your eyes, your mind is set at ease
There's no goodbyes, just a warm summer breeze
