Come to the inner side of the sidewalk
I'll pull you in so you won't get hurt
When we're eating together
I'll neatly place your spoon and chopsticks on a napkin
Even when I don't get enough sleep in the morning
I'll get up earlier and give you a morning call
From the moment I started liking you
Not a single day has been ordinary

We're close friends, we pretend not to have feelings
I introduce you as a good friend
But there are words lingering in my mouth
I am in love with you, I wanna give you

(Hey!) Tender love
Tender love baby (Give it to me)
Tender love
Tender love baby
(Hey!) Tender love (It may not be up to date)
Tender love baby (Give it to me)
Tender love (But it's deeper and more genuine than anyone else)
My love is old-fashioned

My close friends already (what's up with you!) noticed
They tell me to confess my feelings
When I say goodbye to you, I feel weird for some reason

We're close friends, we pretend not to have feelings
I introduce you as a good friend
But there are words lingering in my mouth
I am in love with you, I wanna give you

Your eyebrows droop down as you say the words (oppa oppa)
Every time you do that
The sound of my heart beat rings out loud (boom boom boom boom)
My face turns hot, my ears are smoking
But then after a few hours, my mental state becomes like glass
