

Tryin' to catch the light
Running towards a feeble light
Release me
Release me
I'm fucking sick of screaming
'Cause no one gives a shit
I'm running straight into the void

Running towards a feeble light
Reaching out my arms but I feel nothing
No soul here to catch me

The light slowly fades away
Leaving me astray
On my body, a heavy weight
Leaving me out of breath
I succumb to rest
Where the night unveils its canvas

Dreams whirling in a semi-reality
Bridging the gap between the violence
And the realm of thoughts
Leading to a sense of isolation
I am trapped in sideration

(I remain, I remain, I remain, I remain)
I remain spectator of the unreal
Gotta find the power to wake
To run away, I will escape

Yah-yah-yah!

To a place where my spirit slowly dies
Where your voice can't follow me
Guiding myself to the shrine of serenity
In a boundless universe
Where I can hide fragility

The erosion of your dignity

Trying to catch the light
Running towards a feeble light
Release me
I'm fucking sick of screaming
'Cause no one gives a shit
No one gives a shit

I shed the shame
Fuck it, ugh!
I now see the light
I now see the light