

empty mind

Fact

I empty my mind, for no reason at all Just stare at the line between the sky and the sea and wait for your welcome
Leave the door open
As the light from the east makes me rub my eyes, show only you my loneliness
Without wiping away the mistakes of last night
Without forgetting everything no-one opened up their eyes
I kept on searching and all found was a leftover eraser
Continually eraser
No words left on paper

Remember,

I tried to write over them so many times
And so many times I failed
Without thinking
I empty my mind

Everything is gone, there is only black sky
Nothing to be seen not a cloud is in the sky

I'm waiting for your welcome
How long should I wait?
How many times have I waited for a call, when all that changes is time

Repeat over again and I'll forget you