

Know Your Darkness

Faderhead

You know the world can't understand your pain
You see the world just look at you with hate
You feel a weight that's crushing down
And whisper, "Can you save me now?"
You feel a weight that's crushing down
And whisper, "Can you save me now?"
("Can you save me now?")

You know I can
Because I know your darkness
Because I know your darkness
And I know you're not heartless
I know you're not heartless
(You know I can)
Because I know your darkness
You contemplate if life is just a game
And it is clear to me you feel betrayed
It's getting colder all around
You whisper, "Can you hold me now?"
It's getting colder all around
You whisper, "Can you hold me now?"

("Can you hold me now?")
You know I can
Because I know your darkness
Because I know your darkness
And I know you're not heartless
I know you're not heartless
(You know I can)
Because I know your darkness
(You know I can)
(You know I can)
Because I know your darkness
(Your world can't understand your pain)
Because I know your darkness
(You see the world just look at you with hate)
And I know you're not heartless
(You feel a weight that's crushing down
And whisper, "Can you save me now?")
And I know you're not heartless
("Can you save me now?"
You know I can)
Because I know your darkness